

could is off hook

on fishing for demersals from the South West to Broome.

ALAN SIMON
Sorrento

History lessons

Both Roger Cook and his deputy Rita Saffioti could do well to brush up on Australian political history, especially in regard to leaders who don't listen to advice they don't want to hear, or disagree with ("Perth Park" to reshape city", TST, Nov 23).

Campbell Newman, in Queensland, alienated the electorate with his obstinacy and was thrown out after one term of arrogant administration.

Gough Whitlam tried to "crash through or crash" and eventually did exactly that: his autocratic and belligerent style alienating the electorate. Cook and Saffioti are totally misreading the electorate with their pathetic Perth Park sales pitch. These days, anyone shaking hands with these two should count their fingers afterwards.

ROY STALL
Mount Claremont

NEWS

'PERTH PARK' TO RESHAPE CITY

Roger & Rita reveal new images to prove $217m Burswood blitz is a community entertainment precinct NOT just a racetrack

FOR THE RECORD The Perth City Council has approved a $217m plan to transform the Burswood Peninsula into a community entertainment precinct. The plan, which includes a new racetrack, a casino, a hotel, and a range of other facilities, is set to be completed by 2025. The project is being led by the Perth City Council, with Roger Cook and Rita Saffioti as the main proponents. The plan is expected to create thousands of jobs and boost the local economy. The new racetrack will be a state-of-the-art facility, and the casino will be one of the largest in the world. The hotel will be a five-star property, and the other facilities will include a range of shops, restaurants, and entertainment venues. The project is expected to be a major boost for the Perth economy and a landmark development for the city.

TOUGH CHOICE FOR ZELENSKY

Is the Trump peace proposal a bad deal for Ukraine and a threat to European security?

FISHING
BUMPER GT TICKED OFF CHRIS' BUCKET LIST
CATCH OF THE WEEK

Celebrating the best in the west
Two-day festival off to a flying start

"pivotal choice between standing up for its sovereign rights and preserving the American support it needs". Wow, with friends like that (the US) who needs enemies?

Nobody in their right mind would believe that a settlement offering many concessions from the country it invaded would not embolden Putin to carry out future aggressive action on his European neighbours. He's being rewarded this time. Trump is quoted as saying he's not thinking of more war. He's thinking punishment. What punishment?

Giving Putin what is proposed in the Trump peace hand. Here's a peace plan to consider.

Russian troops retreat; Russia ceases to attack Ukraine; Russia returns any Ukrainian territory it has stolen. Russia (as punishment) to fund the rebuilding of the Ukrainian cities it has destroyed and Putin to be put on notice that any future aggression against any other nation will be met with whatever is necessary to stop him, on day one, not rewarding him after four years.

A. BUTLER
Pinjarra

We need migrants

curtailed through a lack of innovation. Immigration is how we achieved our existing quality of life. Our politicians have been preaching that limiting immigration is the solution to our shortages and on top of that say we can't house ourselves, let alone any additional people.

What the politicians don't say is that immigration should be encouraged for the people who will add value with the skills needed to achieve the goals we are not achieving. Wake up: we need people to fuel our (could-be very powerful) nation.

The simple solution is to encourage and bring in the