

Promise worth breaking

So, Premier Roger Cook reckons his party does not break election promises, and the racetrack at Burswood will be built. May I tell him it would be wise to break this promise and use the money to bring hospital maintenance up to world-class standard?

Many thousands of West Australians, like myself, voted for Labor only because the Opposition, on State and Federal level, was and still is for a variety of reasons unelectable.

Dirk Conrad, Marangaroo