

Honesty in a race to the bottom

Ben Harvey, I have a much better idea for your pledge about doing a naked run if the racetrack at the Burswood park is built on time and on budget ("My hot lap guarantee", Opinion, July 20).

How about you do a naked run around the park if the Government actually listens to the people and does not build the racetrack? And if it does not go ahead with the rugby club, with its cost unknown due to the lack of honesty by the Government? While I would not go naked (that would really put a strain on the hospital system if I put my wrinkles on display!!!) and would have to walk, if my idea was the winner, I would walk alongside of you the whole way because my experience of this Premier and Deputy

Premier is that they will do their usual thing and not answer anybody.

MARGARET ANNE RYAN
Ballajura

Body on the line

I like the offer included in the racetrack guarantee by Ben Harvey where he threatens to run a lap of the Burswood track if it comes in on time and on budget.

Harvey must be very confident that the final project will run off the rails to put his body on the line like this. If the racetrack opens in summer months, this could be a real hot lap for Harvey.

RON PECKITT
Duncraig

Don't do it, Ben

Ben Harvey, my first go-to columnist each week, has just left me shattered.

I can think of a million reasons why the racetrack at Burswood should not go ahead.

With your idea of running a lap in the nude if it does go ahead, that's just became a million and one reasons.

IRENE SANDERSON
Kalamunda