

SA shows the way

In Adelaide, there is a program in place to monitor street-sleepers and ensure they have things such as water, energy bars, tampons, etc. They are not treated as criminals. In WA , despite much hand-wringing from the Government, programs like this barely exist, except for organisations like the Salvos, St Pat's, etc — and they are swamped.

I think of all the money going to the racetrack and wonder if Rita Saffioti gives a damn.
