

Conference off message

Given Anthony Albanese's declaration of war on carbon dioxide and latest vision for reaching net zero, surely it is hypocritical to wish to host the next climate conference.

Most delegates will need to fly further to reach Australia than any other country, thus resulting in excessive CO₂ emissions.

While on the subject of hypocrisy, surely having a racetrack for petrol-guzzling V8 Supercars shows a State Government which is also not serious about reducing emissions.

Shelley London, Dianella